BONUS PLAN FOR SHIPS PROGRESSES

President Breaks Up Opposition to His Subsidy Bill

$30,000,000 YEARLY

Soldier's Bill Stops Administration's Marine Plans

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Delay for two years in the cash payments of a soldier bonus was virtually decided upon today by republican members of the house ways and means committee.

"No bonus for the shipping interests until after the soldiers get their bonus."

This was seized as a slogan today by opponents in the congress of President Harding's plan for a direct aid of $30,000,000 a year to American ship operators.

However, sentiment in both houses showed that the president, by his address to congress yesterday, submitted a definite and comprehensive subsidy program had broken down to an unexpected degree the long standing opposition to such a measure.

Harding has thrown down the gauntlet to congress by virtually declaring that the subsidy program is "the last and only chance" to save the American merchant marine. Leaders of both parties admit that it would be unwise to continue the present plan of having a deficit of hundreds of millinos piling up through continued shipping board operation of the marine. What to do with the large number of government ships unless the bill is passed is a most difficult problem.

Opponents of the subsidy will attack it on the ground that the federal government should not give money to private interests. They will also attack on apparent plan of the subsidy advocates to make it appear that the subsidy will not take money directly out of the treasury. The subsidy program calls for a diversion of the customs receipts to a revolving fund to be given the ship operators. This, it is claimed, is in reality a direct expenditure from the treasury, because otherwise all receipts go into the treasury.

Efforts will be made by the shipping board to rush the program, so that it may dispose of all its ships. Should the bill be passed, skeleton organization would have to be maintained to administer it.

Senator Borah will lead the fight against the measure in the senate.

"I don't think this is the time for a bonus or subsidy," he says.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—President Harding, by his presentation to congress of a definite and comprehensive ship subsidy program, has broken down to an unexpected degree opposition that has existed for the last 25 years to a "bonus for ships" sentiment in both the senate and house, showed today.

Despite this, passage of Harding's bill, which calls for direct aid of $30,000,000 a year and various forms of indirect subsidy, is not expected in the near future. It may not be passed until after the elections.

The subsidy situation has been complicated by the pending of the soldier bonus bill in congress. There were rumblings today of a movement, which might take as its motto "No bonus for ship operators until after a bonus for the ex-service men."

MUSIC TREAT IS PLANNED FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

Brahm Van Den Berg to Give Program for Music Club

One of the greatest musical treats of the season which the Glendale Music Club has provided for this city, and they have been many, is in store for next Friday night at Glendale High School when the world-famous pianist, Brahm van den Berg will give the program.

Mr. van den Berg's playing is a revelation of the capacity of the piano, an illumination of the wonderful things which can be done with an instrument in the hands of a master musician who dominates it and makes it express his soul in melody.

Mr. van den Berg succombed to the charms of Glendale before the World war and lived here for several years. After those four years of carnage he revisited his native land, Belgium, expecting to remain but found he was, after all, more in tune with the country of his adoption and so returned to California and Glendale where he is now residing at 109 South Cedar street.

He had no place in the immutable progress of invention and rubber tires.

This is the thought expounded by Foley in "The Listening Post" this evening.

Henry James talks of the tragedy of Santa Barbara and points to the fact that domestic gas must be disarmed before it is a finished product. He discusses theft as against the old methods of getting money by earning it.

Dr. Frank Crane writes on piracy. Editorial features by John Pilgrim and Della Stewart, eastern points of view and poetry, together with wise sayings, for your satisfaction on the editorial page tonight.

VICTIM'S MOTHER TAKES STAND IN MURDER CASE

Mrs. John D. Kennedy Tells of Death of Her Son

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—Madalynne Obenchain today faced her most dangerous day in court.

Mrs. John D. Kennedy, broken in spirit and health since the murder of her only son, was to take the stand against the charming divorcee accused of having planned his death. Mrs. Kennedy's testimony in itself may not be damaging. The effect upon the jury of the lonely, forlorn little mother is, however, regarded as the prosecution's trump card.

When she takes the stand today, it will be the first time since the Beverly Glen tragedy that the two loves of John Belton Kennedy—his mother and his sweetheart—have faced each other.

$109,515 IS LOW BID FOR SCHOOL

Board of Education Defers Glendale Park Intermediate Award

SIGN FOR ACACIA

Trustee Black and Supt. White Named to Join Committee of 19

A meeting of the board of education was held Tuesday night with only three members present, viz. Mrs. Barton, Mr. Hibben and David Black. Also present in conference were Messrs. Wilkinson and Learned of the special advisory committee. Dr. Lucas and Mrs. Arthur C. Brown were under the weather and did not deem it wise to come out.

Bids were opened for contracts in connection with the new Glendale Park avenue intermediate, there being several bidders under each division of the contract. The acceptance of bids went over until a full meeting of the board. The lowest bids in the aggregate totalled $109,515, and were divided as follows:

General contract, Rommel Construction company, $95,500.

Plumbing, Coker & Taylor, $5,093.

Electric work, Newberry company, $2,952.

Clocks, Standard Electric company, $1,350.

Heating, still open, $4,620.

Superintendent White reported that the escrow for the purchase of the lot of Mrs. McCammon in connection with the new intermediate site would be closed this morning; also that negotiations were continuing for the Edwards lot in connection with the Acacia school campus.

Trustee David Black and Superintendent White were named by the board to join with the sub-committee of nineteen in a conference with Principal George U. Moyse and a member of the board of high school trustees, who might be named, to discuss the interests of the city school system and the high school system where they overlap, with the idea of framing some general policy with regard to a junior high school proposition.

Contracts for the Acacia school buildings were signed, which will call for an expenditure of $23,972, more or less, according to the heating plant selected. The general contract goes to J. B. Harris; subcontract for electrical fixtures to the J. A. Newton company; for electrical wiring to the Jewel Electric company, and for plumbing to Coker & Taylor.

The heating system to be selected for all the schools to be built is still open.

Superintendent White was instructed to re-advertise for sale the three houses to be disposed of on lots which have been purchased for school purposes because bidders declared the ten days allowed for moving the houses was not sufficient. In the re-advertisement 30 days will be allowed.

C. OF C. PICTURE CONTEST STARTS WITH RUSH

Prizes Stimulate Cameras of Glendale to do Their Best for City

The picture contest of the chamber of commerce has started and already a large number of local views have been turned in to the advertising committee of the chamber, in charge of the contest. L. H. Wilson, chairman of the committee, in announcing the rules governing the contest, says that the only requirements are that the pictures taken be either of street scenes, homes or woodland scenes in Glendale, and must have no personal advertising displayed. The contest is open to either amateur or professional photographers. Two prizes of $15 and $10 respectively, have been offered. One thing that the committee wants understood is that all pictures submitted in the contest are to be the property of the chamber of commerce after the contest closes.

The fact that the contest is open to professionals as well as amateurs should not deter any one from entering the contest, in the opinion of Mr. Wilson. According to him, the best pictures submitted to date have been taken by amateurs. Send in your pictures. The prize winners will be chosen by a committee of judges, to be named later. At the end of the contest the prize winners and the pictures will be published. The pictures will later be used in an advertising campaign, to be conducted by the chamber.

GLENDALE VISITOR IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT

Man Seeks Way Out of Problem by Poison Route

Despondency over his inability to secure work caused Robert E. Brown of 1060 Cerritos avenue, Long Beach to attempt suicide here sometime during last night by taking poison. He was found this morning lying unconscious in the front yard of a house on Monterey road by George Smith and was taken to the Glendale Research hospital where he was given emergency treatment. Later it was announced that he would live.

Investigation by Detective Sergeants Delgardo and Herda disclosed that the man who is about 28 years old, came to Glendale some time ago from his home in Long Beach in search of work. He has been rooming at a house in the 1100 block on Monterey road It was in front of this house that he was found. Mr. Smith, who found him lives next door and is in the habit of lighting the furnace every morning for the woman with whom Brown has been boarding. This morning when he started into the yard to perform this task he saw the apparently lifeless body of the man lying on the lawn. Attempts to revive him were unavailing and the Research hospital was notified. It was learned that he had taken considerable strychnine. CONTRACT FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL UNIT IS APPROVED

Preliminary Plans and Estimates to Be Submitted Tuesday

Two members of the high school board of trustees—Mrs. Gardner and Daniel Campbell—were absent from the meeting of the board Tuesday evening on account of indisposition, but a session at which considerable business was transacted was held by President H. V. Brown, Trustees Yarick and Watson.

I. C. Leggett, owner of property adjoining the new high school site, on the east, was given a hearing relative to a proposed new street on the east boundary of the campus, the board agreeing to continue efforts to secure the opening of the thoroughfare.

Capt. Thos. D. Watson was requested to represent the board in the execution of a contract with Architects Austin and Lindsey, which has received the approval of the county council, to whom it was submitted. Announcement was made that the architects would be prepared to submit preliminary plans and estimates at the adjourned meeting to be held next Tuesday evening.

A letter from Superintendent R. D. White asking for a conference relative to the co-ordinating of the interests of the two school systems here in Glendale, looking to the adoption of a building program and action relative to a junior high school, was read, but action was deferred until next week when it is expected the full board membership will be present.

James Clark, whose application for a position as teacher of forge work had been approved last week, was elected a regular teacher for the remainder of the year.

MYSTERY DEATH OF PHYSICIAN IS INVESTIGATED

Body of San Francisco Doctor Found in Wrecked Office

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—Efforts to explain the sudden death late yesterday of Dr. Michael Henry Etcheverry, prominent San Francisco physician, was made by the police today.

The doctor's body was found last night, in his offices in the Flood building. The offices were in disorder, with surgical instruments, books, papers and furniture strewn about the place and disarranged.

The body was in a chair in front of the doctor's desk, the feet propped up on a desk and prevented from falling off by a heavy, framed picture of Mrs. Etcheverry placed against them.

While death by heart disease was given as the first examination, the police were not satisfied and continued their investigation.

Dr. Etcheverry had recently returned to San Francisco from his old home in San Diego.

DISTRICT HI TRUSTEE ELECTION

Many Candidates Mentioned for Seat on Board

REELECTION SOUGHT

Mrs. Gardner Seeks to Remain Where She Has Given Satisfaction

Official announcement has been made of the election to select trustees for the high school district to fill the places of those whose terms are expiring. Mrs. Gardner of Eagle Rock will be a candidate to succeed herself for a three-year term. As Mrs. Gardner has filled the office efficiently and with apparent satisfaction to all, it is probable that there will be no opposing candidate named from that portion of the district. H. W. Yarick is filling the unexpired term of C. O. Pulliam, deceased, and has not indicated whether he will allow his name to be used. He, too, has exhibited qualities very desirable in a school trustee and will probably be urged to come out as a candidate for this office, which means hard work and few compensations except the satisfaction of well doing.

BUSINESS WOMEN IN INFORMAL MEETING

Forty Members Gather for Discussion in Club House

About forty members of the Business and Professional Women's club enjoyed a little informal meeting at home, the club rooms on South Brand, Tuesday evening, and were given a peep into the future to the extent of learning that they are the masters of their fate, the captains of their souls.

The characteristics of those born under the 12 signs of the zodiac, as figured out by astrological science, were read by Dr. Laura Brown, and the members whose birthdays occurred within each sign were given special seats where all could observe their while their virtues and defects were catalogued. All, apparently, were destined for great things if they could cultivate their higher, spiritual natures, and on the contrary were capable of great depravity is they neglected to follow the straight and narrow path. All seemed to have latent occult powers which would enable them to foretell the future, and to cure disease. Also, the majority, if they allowed themselves to give way to discouragement and forget their high estate, were liable to torpid livers, stomach derangement, kidney trouble, bachache, heart disease, and several other things. The majority possessed magnetic powers which would enable them to sway vast audiences if they would but cultivate them, and also were brilliant writers in embryo. The revelations were most encouraging and the community may look forward to great developments now that the business women have been tipped off as to what they really are in the scheme of creation.

A number of applications for membership were handed in, and announcement was made of the course of three entertainments which are to be given under the auspices of the club, at the chamber of commerce auditorium, viz. March 10, lecture by Cristabel Pankhurst, the great English suffragette; March 24, "Melodrama of Hiawatha," by the Cadman trio, of which Miss Alma Geiger of this city is a member; "The Trend of Time," a "lyrical idyl," composed by Harry Girard, distinguished musician of Glendale, and presented by the Girard-La Bonti quartet.

There was considerable visiting among members and delicious popcorn, popped on the club range by Dr. Brown, in a patent popper from Missouri, was served while the horoscopes and visiting were in progress.

THE RAVEN REPORTS A SCANDAL

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"Now, there's one thing I've noticed," Dr. Muskrat interrupted his story to put in. "Not meaning to tickle anyone's ears, but I can't help remarking that beavers have been very, very particular about keeping their word ever since the First Beaver sailed through the Big Flood on his oak tree raft along with the squirrel, the muskrats and the seals, and all their little ones. You've noticed how Chips kept his promises he gave his mother before he left the Secret Pond? He just can't help it—it's as much a part of him as—as his tail. And a very nice part to have.

"Well, when the First Beaver heard the rascally old raven say Mister Noah let him out of the Ark to go in search of land he was quite scandalized. 'What are you doing here if you went on an errand?' said he. 'He'll be waiting for you. Why didn't you go back to tell him what you found out?'

"'Awk,' said the foxy old bird. 'He sent me to look for land, didn't he? Well, I haven't found any. I'll tell him fast enough when I do. But I don't have to go back to him. He's coming this way again. So are Fluke-slasher (the whale) and the other seal. That's the message they sent you.

"'And besides all that,' says he, with a knowing wink, 'Mister Noah isn't wearing out his eye-sight looking for me. There's beast and bird and bug went aboard his old boat that will never walk earth again. He appointed me undertaker, to clear away the remains, so they'd make no talk. But he doesn't want me sitting on his taffrail when he calls out their names as they march off it again, to ask, "Where's the dragon?" or "Where's the unicorn? Where's this one? Where's that?" Awcraw, no!

"'Why, that fool of a dove offered to fly when I did. Did he let her, the cooin,' kissin,' blandantherin' thing? He did not. The air is still enough here; 'tis because where that Ark does ride all the winds of the world are kicking up a wulli-wa. He sent me out into it, well knowing that I could never find my way back by going up-wind to him again at the rate they were changing. He's weather-wise enough for that. He thought I'd fly till my wings gave out and then I'd drown. And so I should if I hadn't found the whale to light on. A most accommodating beast, that whale is. He lay over on his side and let me fill my craw with the barnacles that hang to the white chest of him, and pretended I was doing him a favor by clawing them off him. That's true politeness, I'm telling.'

"'And where did you find my husband?' inquired the mother seal."

COCAIN IN VIOLETS

LONDON, Feb 25.—If you want a whiff of violets, be careful you don't get a "sniff of snow." An innocent appearing flower-girl in Piccadilly Circus, might, if you winked your left eye, hand you a bunch of violets and charge you for a whole carload of them. For down in the middle of the bouquet you would find a little packet, nicely done up in tin-foil and containing sniffs for a week.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store. —Adv.

'LADDIE' OF EAGLE ROCK HAS POET LAUREATE

Miss Scantlebury Breaks Into Verse Over His Heroic Virtues

The following verses were sent to Mrs. Frank J. Benneson of Eagle Rock, owner of the famous Collie that has appeared in Christie's pictures and will soon be seen in the Stahl release, "One Clear Call"

LADDIE

(By Elizabeth Ellis Scantlebury, of Redondo Beach, Calif.)

Dog stars two shine close together,
Far above o' winter night;
On the screen, whatever weather,
Laddie shines, a dog star bright.

There he gives first aid to Cupid;
Routs the hobo, villain stalks;
Circumvents fond parents stupid—
Deep design, so wicked, balks.

There, eyes filled with doggish laughter,
Shouts with tail and joyous bark
To the mob a-tumbling after:
"Hi! Was ever such a lark?"

Chases gloom; when things look bluest,
Sympathetic, full of cheer;
Comrade he, and friend the truest,
We salute you, Laddie dear!

A man never appreciates beauty unadorned more than at the time he gets the bill for his wife's winter furs.

EAGLE ROCK IS LIVE CITY SAYS ALLEN

Shirley Allen Lumber Company Head Is Enthusiastic

"If you want to see a live city come to Eagle Rock," said Mr. Allen of the Shirley Allen Lumber company, located on Park avenue near Central, Eagle Rock, this morning "If there is any city in this little city I would certainly like to see it. In Eagle Rock every day finds new homes or business blocks started, and as a result the city's population is growing in a wonderful manner.

"We are only toddlers in the lumber business as yet, but at that we are doing far more business than we ever expected we would. This shows that the people of Eagle Rock appreciate Golden Rule treatment and prices that are right at every turn. We do not cut prices on a few kinds of lumber, only to "lay it on" when other kinds are purchased. Our aim is to save the purchaser as much money as possible on every purchase.

"On January 1st we started business in the middle of a field covered with alfalfa and gopher holes. These have disappeared and in their place we now have a first-class lumber yard. And the best of it is, we are growing every day, and we intend to continue to spread out until we have all the business we can possible take care of. We are more than pleased with the way the people of Eagle Rock have treated us and we are trying to reciprocate by giving them the very best of lumber at the lowest possible prices."

This firm has assisted in building at least 50 homes in Eagle Rock since it started in business, and has furnished lumber completed for no less than thirty homes These homes contained from 3 to 6 rooms and range in price from $1200 to $5000. There are several reasons for this building activity. There are good schools, cheap car fare to and from Los Angeles, and excellent class of citizens, and ideal home locationss, etc.

It is the intention of thsi company to soon install a complete planing mill service, for which feature it has already applied for power.

BROWN & CO. BOOSTS IN EAGLE ROCK

One of the most active and wide-awake firms in Eagle Rock is the J. B. Brown & Co., 117 Central avenue. Ever since locating in Eagle Rock this firm has been on the move and has done much toward the upbuilding of the city as a whole.

This firm has at this time, in addition to several smaller residence jobs, two good sized business buildings under construction. One of these is the four-store business block at 112 to 116 South Castle street. This building is being erected at a cost of about $6,000. Two of the rooms in this building have already been spoken for although the structure is only half completed. It is the intention of this company to start work on another four-store building just as soon as the present structure is finished and leased.

Another business structure the finishing touches to which are just being made by the firm is located at 112 and 114 East Colorado street This building is being put up at a cost of $8,000, and one of these rooms has been leased to the Chaffee Grocery company, while the other has been leased by the Hancock Music company.

The Brown company has just finished a garage at the corner of Townsend avenue and Colorado boulevard, in which the Townsend avenue garage is now located. Mr. Brown, head of this company, says that business was never better than it is at this time. Realty in Eagle Rock is selling rapidly and the calls are becoming more numerous all the time. The prospects for this city is exceedingly bright.

EAST VS. WEST AT RIVERS CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Agricultural, banking and commercial interests of the east and west clashed here today in a bitter fight on the proposed Great Lakes to the-sea waterway at the 17th annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Eastern interests oppose the project for fear it will mean the loss of a huge slice of their ocean business. Western interests frankly admit that deepening of the St. Lawrence river will benefit the farmers and business men of the middle west and west to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars annually, by giving them a direct outlet to the ocean.

Friends of the project believe they have the preponderance of strength at the convention and expect to not only keep the organization from going on record against the proposal, but to adopt a resolution endorsing it. Opponents of the project fought it in the resolutions committee and then planned a direct and a flank movement on the floor in the hope of succeeding in one maneuver. One move calls for the convention to adopt a resolution against the project and the other is designed to put in on record against the expenditure of money by the United States government on waterway development outside the country.

Proponents of the St. Lawrence project will fight both with the utmost vigor. John Barrett, former director of the Pan-American Union, and now working in the interest of American foreign trade expansion, has issued a warning against a business war between the east and west.

"The arraying of the east against the west," he said, "in a bitter conflict will effect unfavorably all phases of legislation and financial and commercial relations essential to national prosperity."

INCOMES WHICH MUST BE REPORTED

Local Consultants Give Informations at to Those Who Must File

Masters & Egan, local income tax consultants, furnish the following information in regard to filing returns on income tax:

An income tax return must be filed by every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and every person residing in the United States, though not a citizen thereof, whose gross income for the taxable period 1921 amounted to $5,000, or whose net income amounted to (a) $1,000 if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife; (b) $2,000 if married and living with husband or wife.

If the combined net income of husband, wife and dependent minor children equalled or exceeded $2,000, or if the combined gross income of husband, wife and dependent children equalled or exceeded $5,000, all such income must be reported on a joint return, or on separate returns of husband and wife.

If single, and the net income, including that of dependent minors, if any, equalled or exceeded $1,000, or if the gross income equalled or exceeded $5,000, a return must be filed. A minor, however, having a net income of $1,000 or $2,000, according to the marital status, or a gross income of $5,000, must file a return.

Under each of the above conditions a return must be filed even though no tax is due. Do not take credits for personal exemption or dependents into consideration when figuring net income.

SIMPSON WINS AT CORONADO

SAN DIEGO, March 1.—Robert Simpson, Coronado Country club, today holds the open Southern California golf championship for professionals, and a $500 purse. In the finals yesterday Bob shot a 71 on the Coronado course, bringing his total to 295 strokes for the 72 holes, constituting the four days of play, which alternated on the San Diego and Coronado Country clubs' links.

A tie resulted for second honors, Hutt Martin, Los Angeles Country club, and last year's champion, evened up with Jim Simpson, San Diego Country club, each totalling 299. They divided a $350 purse. Harry Pressler, Wilshire Country club, finished next with 311.

MISS PANKHURST TO SPEAK MAR. 10

The big event looming just ahead for the early part of March is the lecture by Miss Cristabel Pankhurst, set for March 10, to be given in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's club.

In the woman movement among the English-speaking peoples there have been a few challenging figures who came to personify it in the public mind. In this country was Susan B. Anthony. In England it was Emmeline Pankhurst, assisted by her daughter, Cristabel, who is credited with originating the masterful policy which by its dramatic quality brought the question of suffrage in the British isles to the forefront, convinced politicians of the earnestness and determination of the suffragettes. After a world war in which the suffragettes demonstrated their loyalty and devotion to the cause in which England was fighting by strenuous service, the capitulation to the demand of "votes for women" was easy.

Miss Pankhurst's feminine appearance and gentle voice belie the spectacular things she felt impelled to do during the strenuous campaign. Her round cheeks carry no suggestion of a hunger strike, but she was undoubtedly the most picturesque figure in the struggle with stubborn John Bull, and she will always be an interesting woman of courage and resourcefulness.

She made a great hit in Pasadena, where she addressed a large audience a few weeks ago, and lendale is fortunate to have this chance to see and hear her because she will soon be leaving California

"DISRAELI" AT THE GLENDALE

With the advent of Mr. George Arliss in "Disraeli" on the screen today, Manager Howe of the Glendale Theatre having booked it for today, calls attention to the fact that Disraeli was one of the greatest philosophers of the nineteenth century. Many of his sayings are still commonly heard, and many so-called wits since his day have stolen his thunder, and claimed it as their own. Here are several of his most famous remarks:

"There are two powers at which men should never grumble—the weather and their wives."

"Everybody knows the stages of a lawyer's career—he tries in turn to get on, to get honest, to get honest."

MISS MOCK INJURED

Miss Bessie Mock is recuperating from a painful accident in which a finger was crushed by a safe door. At first it was feared the amputation of a portion of it might be necessary, but the finger was saved in entirety though she still suffers pain. She has been brave through the ordeal, continuing her regular work at the Research Hospital and refusing to take an anaesthetic when the wound received attention.

RALPH LAUGHLIN GIVES TUESDAY CLUB MUSIC

Garage Next Door to Masonic Temple Disturbs Concert

Members of the Tuesday Afternoon Club had a taste of the simple life in the meeting of Tuesday wherein no business was transacted and a lyric program was given by Ralph Laughlin, endowed with a beautiful big tenor voice, resonant but mellow, whose fine accompaniment were played by Mrs. Laughlin.

A garage establishment next door to Masonic Temple tried to enter into competition and twice responded to the protests of the program chairman. The singer took the interruption good naturedly and was assured that the next time he sings before the club it will be its own club house.

Mr. Laughlin's program included: "Nirvana" by Adams; "Sweetheart in Thy Dreaming," by Cadman; "Three Comrades," by Hermone; "Rhapsody," by St. Saens; "At Sunset," from "The Brown Heather," by Carl Busch; "Little Mother of Mine;" "Thou Art So Like a Flower," by Chadwick; "Israfel," the words of Edgar Allen Poe as set to music by King; "Shadows," by Harkness; a group of Shakespearean songs, (Sullivan); and "Friend of Mine."

The meeting was called to order by the second vice president, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, and the minutes were read by Mrs. Mabel Rudy. Mrs. Charles H. Hutchinson, the president, was not well enough to attend the meeting, and Mrs. Oliver Clark, the secretary, was unable to act because of the illness of Mr. Clark's mother.

The meeting of Sections were announced by Mrs. Andrews, general curator who was present after an absence of four weeks in which she has been confined to her home by a "flu" epidemic in her family.

Mrs. Priscilla Houdyshel on behalf of the Women's Relief Corps announced a benefit entertainment to be given at the Glendale Theater by Manager William Howe and invited members to purchase tickets.

Social Notes

CHRISTIAN CIRCLE CLUB MEETING

The usual enthusiastic meeting was held Tuesday night by members of the Christian Circle club. About 75 were present to enjoy a delicious dinner which was served by the ladies of the First Methodist church.

Miss Liggett presided over a short business session and Miss Maud Soper led in the Bible study which followed.

MARY GILLETTE TENT HAS CARD PARTY

The card party given by the Mary Jane Gillette tent, Daughters of Veterans, at the Legion hall Tuesday evening, was a great social success, between 50 and 60 participating in the pleasures of five hundred. A first prize and a consolation favor were given for both ladies and gentlemen, Mrs. Frank Booth making high score for the ladies, Mrs. Tiny Hammond low score; Dr. Fridd made high score for gentlemen and Harry Flower low score. Following play refreshments of coffee and sandwiches were served.

COLORADO P.-T. A.'s TO HOLD MEETING

At the meeting of the Colorado Parent-Teacher association, which will be held Thursday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, Mrs. Kate Vaughn will be the speaker, her topic being "Home Economics," Miss Aline Simons will entertain with readings, and there will be the usual socila half-hour in addition to the business session. Mrs. E. S. McKee is president of this association.

DIBBERNS GIVE FAREWELL PARTY

The farewell party given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dibbern Tuesday night, on the eve of vacating the home they have been occupying at 612 North Orange street and moving to 512 East Lomita avenue, proved a very pleasant evening of bunko, the guests being Messrs. and Mesdames George T. Smith, W. S. Rattray, Warren Roberts, William Boothby, George Pratt, A. L. Baird, T. C. Young, George Kapus, Harry Fowler, William Moore, Jack Hearnshaw, Walter Jones, Alfred Priest, Bert Woodard; and Frank Gorman, Miss Vera Hammond, C. E. Fowler and daughter, Miss Fowler.

The first prize for ladies was captured by Miss Hammond, the gentlemen's trophy going to Walter Jones. Mr. Boothby and Mrs. Rattray received the consolation favors.

Following play a delicious three-course supper was served by the hostess about midnight.

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed; thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this urid acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Adv.

HOLD UP MAN OPERATES AT PASADENA

Ruskin Lane Shot in the Thigh by Bandit Who Escapes

PASADENA, March 1.—Ruskin Lane was shot through the leg on the Foothill boulevard here last night, when a bandit stepped out of the brush where Lane was repairing a tire, after holding up Lane, Iyre Townsend and wife of El Monte, Vernon Jones, and two girls whose names are not known to the police.

In his report to the police, Lane said the holdup man appeared and was immediately challenged to "fight it out." The bandit began shooting. Lane was shot through the left thigh. He was not seriously injured. The attack occured shortly after midnight.

TO ISSUE CERTIFICATES

It is understood that it is planned to issue bonus certificates upon which ex-service men in time of need could obtain loans.

Sentiment in the committee is that this is the only way out of the bonus situation. Republican members of the committee today named a sub-committee "to work out some plan that will not cause a demand for large cash payments for a soldiers' bonus in the next two years," according to an official announcement by Chairman Fordney.

On the sub-committee are Representative Fordney, Michigan; Longworthy, Ohio; Green, Iowa; Hawlye, Oregon, and Treadway, Massachusetts.

Whether the delay in receiving cash would be satisfactory to the American Legion chiefs, committeemen could not say. Legion leaders, however, are strongly opposed to delay in passing a bonus bill and Hanford MacNider, commander, is now on a speaking tour in behalf of prompt action.

DE VALERA LOSES ON TWO OF HIS MOTIONS

DUBLIN, March 1.—Two important motions were before the Dail Eireann when the Sinn Fein parliament resumed its session today. At the opening session, Eamon De Valera and his followers lost by a sound majority on each of six divisions which they forced from the floor. The De Valeraites began their obstructionist tactics with the opening rap of the chairman's gavel, but in each instance were defeated.

Today a motion to divide Irish land recently held by the "enemy," among landless Irishmen, and another to have all births, deaths and marriages registered in Gaelic only, were to be brought up by the malcontents.

Truths in Epigram

In theory there is nothing to hinder our following what we are taught; but in life there are many things to draw us aside.—Epictetus (60 A. D.).

The great business of life is to be, to do, to do without, and to depart.—Morley (1838 —).

Do nothing secretly; for Time sees and hears all things, and discloses all.—Sophocles (496-406 B. C.).

DEATH BED MESSAGES

"There's nothing that can help humanity—I'm perfectly sure there is not—except love. Love is the way out and the way up. This is my farewell to the world."

Such was the noble deathbed message of the late Lord Grey, governor-general of Canada. Through it there shines the sweetness of a great nature, and it fairly is radiant with divine truth.

Little real testimony exists sustaining the integrity of "dying words," often as they are quoted. In most cases, death comes to one whose lips already had been sealed, whose mind has gone into the mist, and whose soul wanders far beyond the ken of the living. But when one knows that death is approaching, and turns his eyes to it with faith, and without fear, then it may be that he is able to utter himself with a wisdom that seems inspired.

"Love is the way out and the way up." How deeply this truth has been impressed upon that part of humanity not deaf and blind in a spiritual sense! From all over the world comes emphasis to the sentiment voiced by Lord Grey. If hatred is to rule, there is no hope. If greed is to be the controlling factor in the relationship of nation with nation, civilization cannot abide.

There are individuals who demand vengeance on those guilty of wronging them. That is, they would continue a state of enmity, corroding, destructive; ultimately fatal. Down through the ages has sounded a mighty voice proclaiming "vengeance is mine."

The words of the passing Lord Grey, after all, merely embody the essence of the Golden Rule, the only perfect rule laid down for the guidance of men.

TO LAY A GHOST

From Canada comes a call for scientists to lay a ghost that has been doing a nocturnal prance about certain respectable premises in Nova Scotia. It seems that Canadian science has been baffled by the prankish visitant. Thus the call for aid may be construed into a compliment.

This ghost is said to have chased worthy families over the hills from the house it haunts, to have terrified horses and cattle, and even to have slapped a courageous reporter on the wrist, whereat the courage oozed. Police stayed in the house until their own nerves shook them out of it.

It may be remarked that scientists of this country do not have firm faith in the ghost hypothesis. A few of them tolerate a school that accepts the return of spirits as established, but the great majority not only dissent, but regard the few as outside the pale of legitimate metaphysical investigation. There doubtless are persons who will state that they have seen ghosts. The indications are that they believe all they say. Their difficulty lies in getting anybody else to believe it.

If the American scientists fail to land the ghost, the matter might be turned over to Freud. Perhaps some individual afflicted by a spook complex has permitted the thing to get loose.

HARDLY PERFECT JUSTICE

The state industrial commission, doubtless guided by the law covering the matter, has awarded to a widow a sum that exhausts the entire estate of another widow. The husbands of the two were killed in the same accident. One man had been employer and the other employee. The accident was ascribed to some fault of the employer. Judgment was given in favor of the other's widow. The payment of the judgment will leave the widow of the employer penniless, and in her destitution her children must suffer with her.

That the employer exposed himself freely to the peril that existed, that he was co-victim with his employee, would seem to nullify any charge that he had acted with malice, or in the knowledge that danger existed. He paid the utmost penalty for his error, yet this did nothing to soften the fate of the employee's family. It was proper that their extremity be given attention.

But the widow of the employer had not been guilty of anything, in any degree. Upon her falls a penalty that easily might be regarded more grievous than death itself. Evidently the attempt to do justice has resulted in the working of an injustice. It is a strange thing if the letter of the law does not permit some compromise in such a case. At least a division, rather than a confiscation, of the estate would have been more pleasing to contemplate.

POLITICS AND PICTURES

A democrat expresses a fear lest the moving picture become an instrumentality of politics. If this should be the case no party would have a monopoly. On the contrary each would have a new method of expressing its principles. Pictures are coming more and more into educational use. They lend themselves admirably to this purpose. This is particularly the case as to geography, and physical characteristics as observed by the traveler. Scientific truths also, the growth of vegetable and animal life, are made clear when the processes are shown in detail on the screen. It is possible also to convey economic theories by embodying them in a story, and then telling the story through the art of the film. This has been done in relation to industrial matters. The strike situation as portrayed on the screen has made the argument of both sides very cunningly. All this has to be done, however, by investing the incidents with narrative and spectacular interest.

Parties in every campaign resort to oratory and pamphlets, and the liberal use of the press. This is wholly within their rights, so long as they endeavor to present fair argument and to set forth the truth as they see it. It does not seem clear that they would not have equal right to utilize the moving picture; only they would have to do this as openly as now they resort to familiar means. The public is too smart to have anything "put over on it." If it pays to see a picture it does not want to be given an illustrated stump speech.

WHY DO THEY DO IT?

Recently an elderly couple, husband and wife for forty years, were arrested for shoplifting. They came from a middle western state as tourists. They have respectable social and financial standing at home, the man being at the head of a considerable industry. Yet they were guilty as charged. Not only were the goods found on them, but they confessed. The man was fined $100, his wife half as much, and money was available in his bank account, to pay both the fines. They could not give any explanation of their conduct. The articles they had taken were of trifling value. The man stated that he did not need any of the things he took, "but just couldn't help taking them." The woman said "I don't know why we did this terrible thing."

There is considerable talk about kleptomania, but investigations have proved the malady to be extremely rare, almost unknown. The ordinary thief has a habit of pleading this form of mania, but it is not often that the court is befooled by it. The inmates of jails show more than a sprinkling of those who had hoped to be classed as kleptomaniacs, and failed to make the grade. Yet this couple, prosperous, traveling for pleasure, may be the real kleptomaniac type, a type so scarce that few ever have encountered it.

There are crimes so useless, so unnecessary, and so devoid of the possibility of profit, that when such a crime is revealed the tendency is to ask "Why do they do it?" Generally there is no answer. Nobody knows the answer, and the guilty are as ignorant as any.

Probably Eve was so called, Gerald, because she arrived in the late afternoon.

After a man secures a girl's hand he sometimes finds she has him under her thumb.

Fortunately a young man can't even imagine that his best girl will look like her mother a few years hence.

A man may be handicapped by being born a poet, but there is on reason why he shouldn't brace up and make something of himself.

PIRACY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The efforts made by Mr. Balfour on behalf of Great Britain to abolish the use of submarines or to limit them very strictly, and the resolutions introduced into the disarmament conference by Elihu Root of the American delegation, declaring that submarine warfare against commerce ships is impossible without violating the principles of humanity, were part of a desperate effort on the part of honorable-minded people to maintain some semblance of honor and chivalry in war.

DR. FRANK CRANE

The thing cannot be done, however. War has become incurably vile.

Every war that occurs is dirtier than the last.

The trouble is that war does not fit in with the ideals of modern man's thought as a normal thing.

Time was when war was a regular business. It was so for centuries. The career of arms was acknowledged as one most worthy and the flower of Europe eagerly engaged in it.

That being the case, it naturally became subject to the rules of decency which humanity tends to make for itself in any regular occupation.

It was an established game, and like every game the participants were supposed to obey the rules.

War in the days of chivalry was generally, although, of course, not always, a fight between armed forces. It was carried on by soldiers in uniform and confined to them.

The last war developed in its later stages into an effort to exterminate populations. The use of poison gas, the bombardment of unarmed seaports, the dropping of bombs from airplanes upon defenseless cities, and firing of shells by Big Berthas into the city of Paris and similar acts marked the transition of war away from the canons of chivalry to the brute struggle toward absolute destruction.

It is no use to say that these things were done by the German army first. This may be the truth. But the other armies had to retaliate in kind.

And in the next conflict the same situation is bound to occur. One participant will drop into ruthlessness and the others will have to follow suit.

The whole effort to limit war, to restrain it, and to make it decent is entirely hopeless. There is but one thing to do with war and that is to quit it.

Reduced to its fundamental essential, war is an effort to adjudicate a difference of opinion between two nations by murder and destruction, which, of course, is absurd.

The only way to settle differences of opinion is by law and right and that is come at not by violence, but by organization.

At the present writing the nations of the world in their relation to each other are in a state of pure anarchy mildly tempered by diplomacy.

The effort to get rid of war by treaties, ententes, and alliances is as effectual as it would be to preserve the peace of a city by forming combinations of the various bands of thugs.

There is only one way to get rid of war, and that is to organize the world so that all disputes can be judged by an international tribunal and that the supreme force shall be in the command of that tribunal and not divided among the contestants. It does no good for a judge to decide a case if the contestants can go out in the court yard and decide it over again in a private fight.

No wriggling and squirming, no fear of a superstate, no loud bellowings about national honor can avoid the inevitable conclusion that another war is absolutely certain unless there is formed some sort of world unity where quarrels are settled by a world court and where that world court has at hand some supreme international police force to carry out its conclusions.

If there is anything short of that that will obviate war no human being has ever yet discovered it.

THE LISTENING POST

A "child of nature."
Sometimes we hear that phrase.
With reference to the unregulated human being.
Who followed impulse unrestrained.

* * *

There are not many children of nature any more.
If, indeed, there are any at all.
There may have been children of nature a great many thousands of years ago.
When men and women and children lived in caves and went out and killed animals for food.

* * *

But the child of nature passed out of existence many thousands of years ago.
And the progress of civilization developed the child of artifice.
Regulated impulse.
Restraint.
For it is necessary that there shall be restraint in order that we may all live together in a rather peaceful assemblage.

* * *

We begin restraining nature impulse in youth.
And continue it until age and decay.
For intelligent self-restraint is the index of the advanced human being.
The refusal to obey natural impulse at all times.

* * *

Thus the school boy.
He does not "go to school."
We say he does.
But he does not.
He seeks no school of his own volition.
His nature would seek the woods and streams and fields and fish and flowers and all that.
He would like to whoop out his life in the open.

* * *

And we say he "goes to school," but it is more exact to say that he is sent to school.
And he goes where he is sent because he stands in fear of punishment.
He is a creature of early disciplining.
And yet, with all our discipline and restraint and urging and all that he plays hookey sometimes.

* * *

So the schoolboy is no longer a child of nature.
He gets up at a regulated time in the morning.
As a child of nature he would sleep as long as he wishes.
Which would be most of the forenoon.
And he would eat whenever he is hungry.
Which would be natural.
Instead he eats at regulated meal times.
Which is artificial, but necessary.

* * *

Then we all of us wear clothes.
And clothes are in the highest degree artificial.
Think of encasing a flesh and blood head in a hat with a form so stiff it makes creases in the flesh and skin like a vise.
Think of wearing a dozen and one things that we wear.
And chafe at and are scratched by and that fret and confine us.

* * *

All unnatural of course.
Highly artificial.
And the roof above our heads and the walls about us.
By which we are "cribbed and cabined and confined."
Nothing natural.
Cooked food.
Unnatural again.

* * *

So when we speak of children of nature in a civilized society we realize that there are none.
And they would not long survive.
For society would finally restrain them.
Make them conform reasonably to conventions.

* * *

And when we lay restraints and conventions and regulations and disciplines upon natures that are full of the desire for unrestrained and unregulated impulse, we set up friction.
Opposition.
Which manifests itself often in crime.
Misdemeanor.
For we are all of us hedged about and overlaid with rules.
Laws and regulations and the like.
Till the wonder is that we do as well as we do.
Not that sometimes we do ill.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Night—By John Addington Symonds (1840-1893)

Mysterious night! Spread wide thy silvery plume!
Soft as swan's down, brood o'er the sapphirine
Breadth of still shadowy waters dark as wine;
Smooth out the liquid heavens that stars illume!
Come with fresh airs breathing the faint perfume
Of deep-walled gardens, groves of whispering pine;
Scatter soft dews, waft pure sea-scent of brine;
In sweet repose man's pain, man's love resume!
Deep-bosomed night! Not here where down the marge
Marble with palaces those lamps of earth
Tremble on trembling blackness; nay, far hence,
There on the lake where space is lone and large,
And mans' life lost in broad indifference,
Lift thou the soul to spheres that gave her birth!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS

[Milwaukee Sentinel]

We are not interested in the proposal to add another month to the year, but we would like to see a few more hours added to the customary twenty-four, say, for instance, two or three more switched in about the time the alarm clock gets busy.

THE FACTOR OF SAFETY

[Lowell Courier-Citizen]

It is probably not known to the layman, any more than it was to us until engineers imparted the information, that the usual custom, and in fact the prevailing law of the land at present, is to require a "factor of safety" in constructing buildings which is represented by the figure four. That is to say, it is the regular thing in erecting any structure to calculate the maximum load it will be called upon to bear—and then make it capable of carrying four times that load. Similarly, steam boilers are required to be capable of sustaining a pressure from four and a half to five times the pressure set for the popping of their safety valves.

This has certain important bearings in current circumstances. That Washington theater which collapsed the other night—can there be any excuse for it? To be sure it was subjected to a weight of snow and probably also to the impact of a wind far exceeding any that the builders had in mind as probable; but if the roof had been made to meet a load four times the supposable maximum, would there have been the slightest chance of its collapsing? One doesn't figure such things by hair's breadths. One multiplies by four the greatest known load, and therein at least makes doubly sure.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

Flattery is very pleasing to most of us. Especially so is the flattery of courtship. Small wonder is it that a man grows to think himself a superman with the graces of Apollo and the strength of a Hercules when he sees that belief shining in the eyes of the one sweetest girl day after day. No wonder that a girl begins to think that she is perfection itself when assured again and again that she is, with each assurance punctuated in the proper lovers' way.

Then comes the terrible disillusionment. Apollo discovers, in the close association of marriage, that the sweetest girl has a temper and is not always sweetly reasonable. The sweetest girl finds out that Apollo is inclined to be slovenly when it comes to shaving every morning and will leave his cigar stubs in most unusual places, besides being perfectly happy occasionally when away from her smiles.

No longer are graceful compliments the order of the day. Eyes no longer always speak adoration, lips do not so often assure of perfection. But love has not flown—it is merely manifesting itself in more practical ways. Even the birds do not sing their love songs when courtship days are over. They are too busy feeding little mouths.

So there is an element of sincerity in the change among humans. The struggle with life has begun; there are rubs and minor disagreements and friction. There may also be an element of laziness, for the ingenuities of flattery and compliment cannot always be at vere heat.

But because flattery no longer holds a front seat in life is no reason for doubting love. We women need specially to remember this.

HERE AT A BAD TIME

[Philadelphia Record]

A party of Scotchmen are wandering around the country attired in tweeds which they would popularize in the United States. They have come at a bad time. Mr. Fordney does not intend to have any tweeds come into the United States. Mr. Wood thinks longingly of the recent year when his common stock paid almost $40 a share. Congress is going to do a nice thing by everybody except the consumer, who has no friends among the republicans. There is going to be a duty on wool for the benefit of Mr. Smoot's constituents, and a compensating duty with a good deal of bonus added for the benefit of Mr. Wood's stockholders, and the American people are going to be saved from that cheap coat that Benjamin Harrison was afraid of.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

At Santa Barbara last week, death came in the night to an entire family. Parents and two children, all of whom had been ailing, and were in care of a nurse, perished as they slept, and the nurse, perhaps innocent cause of the tragedy, died with them. In the morning all were found, every posture showing that the end had come without causing fear or pain, stealing in upon them wholly without warning.

HENRY JAMES

It is seldom that a household is visited, save in times of sweeping and general disaster, by a tragedy so complete. The supposition is that the nurse, her charges asleep, had lighted a gas heater that through some condition of which she was unaware, filled the house with deadly monoxide gas.

Science has accomplished many wonderful things. It has invented gases that inflict burns, poison the tissues, or end life. It would be doing a greater thing were it to take from domestic gas such as is a household necessity, the power to slay.

Deaths from the effect of gas are common. One here, one there, they excite no keen interest. But the gas wipes out a family, and in the circumstance is a theme for thought.

* * *

When an automobilist drives to the front steps, and begins to toot the siren as a signal to somebody inside, he is an annoyance. He proclaims to people within radius of the tumult he creates, that he is too lazy to walk ten feet and ring a doorbell. His act is a marked discourtesy to the person he seeks to summon.

When a long line of automobiles is held for a crossing, and all of the machines but the ones in front start a chorus of honking, the evidence is plain that the drivers are a lot of boors. The man in front is not stopping there from choice. He will start the instant the police will permit.

* * *

An insurance clerk in New York stole $120,000, all of which he placed in a safety box where it was found intact. He said his intention was to have stolen $250,000, a sum sufficient to live the life of ease he craved. He had a very logical system of theft, but had overestimated its capabilities. He has been sent to prison, which is not a life of ease.

In Washington a minor government employee began sending to rich people letters demanding large sums of money. He never went near any of the places where his instructions were for the money to be left. He explained that he desired the sums so as to aid poor children. Nobody seems inclined to prosecute the simpleton.

These are two simple items culled from the day's news. They would indicate to the thoughtful that the best way to get money is to earn it, and the most pleasing alternative, to go without it.

* * *

In the county speeders court in a single day Justice Hanby imposed total fines of $2000. This was a sample day. By taking note of succeeding sessions one may be able to guage the reformatory effect.

In addition to the offenders fined, two were sent to jail. One of the latter was a motorcyclist, this information being such as likely to cause a subdued thrill of joy to the average pedestrian. The motorcycle, with an idiot in the saddle, becomes a fearful instrument of destruction. It has a subtle fashion of stealing upon the footman unawares, and then suddenly breaking into thunderous applause of its own ignoble achievement. Its open muffler is employed solely for adding insult to injury. It moves with incalculable swiftness, silently if the rider desires, and with the clamor of the tempest, if such is his mood. No motorcyclist, who clips along at a sixty-mile gait need waste any time looking for sympathy.

* * *

The legislature of Mississippi considered a resolution that it listen to no more messages from the governor, as it already had wasted much time with the reading of such as had been "misleading nad insulting."

Notwithstanding the tabling of the resolution, the fact of its introduction readily may be construed as evidence of strained relations between two branches of the Mississippi government.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I sometimes think that if I had just a litle more power I could make this world over into a better sort of a place. I can see so plainly what is wrong with other people and how their defects can be cured. But I lack the power to act. When I try to be diplomatic about it—just mildly hint that I see their nitwittedness—they get peevish.

There is my very dear friend Mrs. Archie Maud, for example. Mrs. Archie is a writer by profession and a good one. When she gets down to business she can write circles around most every one of the profession, Shakespeare, Dante, Galsworthy, and a few more being held out of competition. She has taken a bunch of money in advance payments from various publishers and contracts are staring her in the face that would make her milady rich—sort of one-half of one per cent well to do, you know. But she will not work.

"I cannot work," she says. "My eyes hurt me so."

Her eyes do hurt her. I can see that. Any one can see that. She screws them up until just a slit appears between her lids and her forehead is corrugated and her face shows her suffering. What she needs, of course, is a thorough going over by a specialist or two. I went through the same experience, until finally I had my blood tested and my pressure taken and my reflexes reflected and the good old optic nerve taken out and cleaned and bound myself to go on a diet and wear a set of spectacles that give me a weird outward resemblance to a badly foreshortened lobster. Now my eyes do not hurt and my appetite is good and I never have a headache and I can work from daylight to dark. I do not always do it, understand, but I can.

"But I hate spectacles," says Mrs. Archie Maud, angrily.

I know why, too. Mrs. Archie Maud is a very pretty woman. She has had men dangling after her ever since she first put her hair up on wire doodays at night. She thinks spectacles would spoil her looks. Also she wears shoes that are a size and a half too short and too narrow, so that she makes one think of an early Christian just after the Roman Home Guards caught him. Every one notices these facts. They are as easily seen as a bed of lettuce.

But Mrs. Archie will not give up her little vanities—although they make people grin instead of admire—and she goes around suffering and is totally unable to work and is losing ground in her profession. If I had the power to do so I would put her feet in moccasins and her eyes behind large lenses well hooked on over the ear and she would be well in a week.

But I haven't the power. Anyhow, she wouldn't be happy.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Paper made from sugar cane refuse and wood pulp is used in sugar and pineapple plantations in some parts of Hawaii to keep the weeds down. In the case of pineapples the paper is laid down and holes cut where the plants are to be set.

EVILS OF RENT PAYING

Young people who start life paying rent for a home, sacrifice their independence and yoke themselves to the exacting demands of the landlord.

The home is never an income investment, but a sacred and economic place in which to live It should be and can be your own.

There are people in Glendale who have spent six months or a year in a home without paying one cent for the privilege, and there are many more such opportunities all about us if we will open our eyes and look.

Paying rent will never show you the door to your own home.

Paying rent keeps you paying rent and gets you nothing.

It is financially profitable to own your home, and that is the reason your landlord owns yours.

Get out from under the landlord's thumb.

The person who pays rent for ten years fully pays for the home in which he lived and does not own a board in it. At $40 a month for ten years counted at 6 per cent compound interest you will have paid $6326.72.

These are a few of the reasons why you should

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

You can do it by a determined "Declaration of Independence" from the demands of the landlord, and a careful study of the opportunities about you.

It will cost you nothing and place you under no obligation to talk the matter over with us. It will be a pleasure to us to help you, can do you no harm, and may do you much good

Here is an opportunity to which we call your attention particularly because it is good value and the owner is very anxious to sell:

Corner lot in rapidly growing section, 5 rooms all modernly equipped, many exceptionally fine built-in features, Keystone built-in bath and kitchen sink (much better than woodstone), large living room, dining room, 2 bedrooms, kitchen and unfinished cellar. Property fronts north and includes garage with cement floor and two screened sleeping rooms in connection, some young fruit. House was built by the present owner for his own home and far better than the average bungalow, offered for sale. Fourth block from Brand and near store. $2000 will secure possession and balance on easy terms.

We also have another home, owner built, 6 rooms and a dandy, that $1500 will give possession and terms on balance.

We have still others we will be pleased to show you.

We have no phone. Call or drop us a card and we will be pleased to give you all the information possible.

SHRINERS WARNED TO REPORT AT BIG SOCIAL

The monthly meeting and social of the Shrine club of Glendale is scheduled for tonight in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce, and C. E. Neale, president of the organization, issues a warning to all Shriners who are members of the club that they will regret it if they miss this meeting. He says that something extra special has been arranged for in the way of entertainment for the nobles.

Mr. Neale says that the regular business of the organization will be transacted, after which a buffet lunch will be served, the "smokes" lighted and the socil side of the evening will start. Deep secrecy and dark mystery surround the entertainment that has been arranged for the members of the club. All Mr. Neale will say is, "If you belong to the club, be there tonight. If you are absent you will regret it for the rest of your life."

GLENDALE KNIGHTS RALLY AT L. A. AND BOOST

Mayor Robinson Attends Big City Gathering With Local Lodge

Last night, Glendale Knights of Columbus boosters appeared at Columbus auditorium, Los Angeles and before a brilliant and big audience, put over one of the best entertainments ever given before Los Angeles Knights of Columbus. His Honor, Spencer Robinson, in his inimitable way, sang the praises and beauties of the "fastest growing city in the world"; Harry Girard and his charming wife rendered several numbers in their usual fine form; Mr. and Mrs. La Bonte added to the enjoyment of the evening by giving several beautiful selections; Mr Frank Egan delivered recitations which took down the house; Mr Charles Evans was the sensation of the evening with his wonderful dancing and comedy hits.

Grand Knight Brink delivered oratorical pyrotechnics of the wonderful evening of enjoyment supplied by the Glendale boosters. Mr. Brennon was master of ceremonies and was equal to the occasion. Glendale knights and the committee in charge are to be congratulated for their successful efforts in boosting our wonderful city.

UNTROUBLED

He hasn't any troubles now,
No troubles in the world,
There's not a wrinkle on his brow
The flag of care is furled
And though my chance of wealth be slim
Or fame or what you will,
I cannot say I envy him
Whose troubles all are still.

He knows no worry, care or fret,
No cloud is in his sky,
He is not troubled about debt,
And still is every sigh.
His problems all are solved at last,
He knows no grief or pain.
His every sorrow in the past
Nor shall one come again.

His friends all speak of him with praise,
No bitter word is said.
And memory a chaplet lays
Of laurel on his head.
Whatever burdens once he bore
Are lifted from him now,
And never will he fret the more
Of what and why and how.

He has no troubles in the world,
Not any fret or care,
The flag of his short day is furled,
No sorrow his to share.
And though my chance in life be slim,
I'll take it as it is,
For now I do not envy him
Or anything of his.

INTERMEDIATE LOSES BY SMALL MARGIN

Team From Pasadena Academy Proves Too Much for Locals

Tuesday afternoon Intermediate's 110-pound basketball team played the team of Pasadena Military academy. It was a decidedly close contest, the last round ending in a score of 22 to 22, necessitating an extra period in which the Pasadena youngsters raised their score to 26 and the Glendale players to 24, giving the victory to the visiting team.

The entire squad of both teams was used in the game, a number of substitutions being made to give the boys a chance to get into the game and win their letters.

Of the Intermediate squad, George Barlet, Allen Lovell, F. Carver, John Copeland, distinguished themselves as stars.

Leah and Parrott were to the fore in the Pasadena squad. The game was refereed by Captain Wallace of the Military academy.

TUJUNGA LEGION POST TO GIVE BENEFIT

Four One-Act Plays and Other Numbers On Excellent Program

TUJUNGA, Mar. 1.—On Friday and Saturday of this week, at 8 p. m., the Monte Vista post, American Legion, will give a benefit program. Excellent entertainers have been secured and a varied program has been arranged. Admission has been placed at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Included in the program are four one-act plays: "Three Rogues and a Rascal"; "The Old Spinsters' Convention"; "Eyidence," and "The Pup Tent." Other numbers are: Dance, Margaret Reynolds; dialogues, Shields and son; Scotch songs and dances, Ivan Craig; blackface act, John Lambert; reading, Mrs. Bert Begue.

Added to these are other numbers, which make a well-filled program. Every member of the post and the auxiliary is behind this benefit, and it is believed that residents of the community will give it their full support.

The regular weekly business meeting of the post will be held tonight at 7:30 in Bolton hall. All members of the post and auxiliary are urged to be present.

The community church is now the publisher of a monthly paper entitled "The Clarion." The subscription price is 25 cents a year. This is to be purely a local church paper, recording the activities of the Tujunga federation. The church has grown so rapidly during the past year that it has been found necessary to employ Rev. J. U. Stotts, an assistant pastor, and W. H. Perry, assistant Sunday school superintendent. Rev. W. H. Wieman will remain as pastor, and Mr. Millman as superintendent.

'MENTAL SUICIDE' WILL HANG TODAY

Boy Slayer Goes to Scaffold Strapped in Invalid Chair

CHICAGO, March 1.—Harvey Church, boy slayer, "more dead than alive," will go to his death at 4 p. m. Friday strapped in an invalid chair.

Church, whom physicians say is a "mental suicide," has cheated the state from exacting a full death penalty for the brutal murders of Carl Ausmus and Bernard J. Daugherty, automobile salesmen. The hanging will merely be an "official ceremony," as the slayer will not know he is being put to death, according to alienists.

Decision to hang Church in the afternoon instead of dawn, breaks a precedent. Change in time was made for the convenience of a jury of doctors and witnesses who, according to law, must witness the execution.

Authorities said they were empowered to change the time because, since Church will not know he is being hanged, the time will make no difference to him.

Fear of the gallows and 41 days' abstinence from food has caused Church to sink into a coma from which it has been impossible to awaken him. He was still being forcibly fed today.

If you need the teachings of a first affliction you may avoid the second.

Love turns the crank and wealth lubricates the axle.

'PEACOCK ALLEY' MOST GORGEOUS

"Peacock Alley" is without doubt the most gorgeous of film productions. It is without a parallel in artistic treatment; it is simply magnificent. Ralph Allan puts it in a very descriptive and realistic manner when he says, "One has not seen the dazzling, flaming, gorgeous spectacle of all the screen's most bewitching color, costuming, finery and beauty until he has seen 'Peacock Alley'—the picture magnificent."

Mae Murray, the star, reaches the height of art in her wonderful characterization as "Cleo of Paris." Remember, if you have not seen "Peacock Alley," there remain but two more days, today and tomorrow. The first performances were witnessed by packed houses last night. Tonight the attendance is expected to be even better, as "Peacock Alley" is the kind of picture that increases business as time goes on.

Especil mention must also be made of the musical score for "Peacock Alley," as arranged by George Olsene.

NEAR EAST DRIVE TO START HERE

Co-operation of Glendale pastors in the annual campaign for the relief of Christian orphans in Palestine, Turkey and Armenia, was enlisted today by Rev. E. Guy Talbott of Pasadena, Pacific coast regional director of Near East relief, who addressed the Ministerial association at their regular monthly meeting at the First Presbyterian church this morning.

Hundreds of local friends of the cause have promised their usual substantial subscription as soon as the campaign is launched, according to Rev. R. W. Mottern, an active worker here for the relief.

BANDITS HOLD UP SOAP PAYMASTER

MILWAUKEE, March 1.—Five bandits in two automobiles, armed with sawed-off shot guns, held up Chief Paymaster Fred Wallner of the Palmolive Soap company here today and escaped with $19,000.

WOMAN KILLED IN BED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 1.—Mrs. Bessie Marchell, 40, was found shot to death in bed at her home here early today by police who investigated a shot they heard. Henry Marchell, her husband, was asleep beside his wife when officers entered the roeom, and had not been awakened by the shot, officers said. No arrests have been made. A high-power rifle was found in the yard.

SUNNY HONOLULU
